Heavy Rains Still Continue

Heavy rainfall continues in the Chinook district with rain nearly every day this month.

Scotfield News

Mr. J. Young of Bindloss, and Miss Irene Shier, teacher at Acadia Valley were very welcome callers with Scotfield friends on their return trip to Edmonton.

Mr. Gordon Peacock was a business visitor to Calgary last week.

Miss Hazel Douglas came down from Cochrane on Saturday and is spending a couple of days here with her sister, Edith, before going to her parents farm south of Plover Lake.

Splendid rains have given the land a thorough soaking. Warm, sunny weather would now assist very materially as a good root system has been formed.

Mr. Dave Edwards is working for Mr. Geo. Zinger at Stanmore.

Mrs. L. E. Peacock has returned after a very pleasant visit with relatives in Edmonton, Pibroch and Bun Accord.

Cars are getting through, both east and west from Scotfield, although considerable difficulty is met with in a few of the low places.

We wish the pupils every success in their examinations, as with their teachers, they have worked faithfully and well.

The Royal Visit

An historic event, which may be expected to leave in its train a lasting and beneficial influence on the course of events in the Dominion, is the recent visit to Canada of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth.

The occasion, as doubtless nearly everybody knows, marks the first appearance of all time in this country of the reigning monarch, and this in itself is indicative of the growing importance of the Dominion of Canada as a nation and as an entity within the Empire.

Their Majesties' tour across the country was nothing less than a triumphal progress. To those who have always been led to believe that Canadians are an unimpassioned and phlegmatic people, the warmth of the reception accorded the King and Queen by their loyal subjects on this side of the Atlantic was a surprise and occasioned amazement to Britons domiciled in the Motherland.

Nor was the acclaim with which Their Majesties were received confined to Canadians of British birth. On the contrary, it was noted during the progress of the Royal tour, that naturalized Canadians vied with those of British birth in the warmth of their demonstrations and the heartiness of their welcome to their sovereign liege and his beautiful consort.

Touching The Hearts

His Majesty's kindly demeanor combined with his human outlook and attitude inspired respect and high regard on the part of all who had the opportunity to meet him personally and of that much larger multitude who, of necessity, had to be content with little more than a fleeting glance and of reading about his actions and attitude during his visit.

As for Queen Elizabeth, it is no exaggeration to say that her beauty, her consideration for others and her many gracious gestures and kindly actions, coupled with an unassuming manner which did not detract one iota from her high rank, took the country by storm. Canadians immediately took her to their hearts and she left an impression which will long be remembered.

One of the beneficial effects which may be expected from this happy event is a tightening of those ties, loose though strong, which bind Canada to the Motherland and the sister units of the Empire. Had there been any thoughts in the minds of other rulers who harbor the wish as fatherly to the thought that these ties are disintegrating, they must be thoroughly disillusioned by now.

It is also natural to assume that the visit of the King and Queen of Canada to their overseas realm will result in closer unity between the constituent parts of this Dominion, and that is a result which is devoutly to be desired if this country is to assume and maintain the rank in the world of nations to which she is entitled by virtue of her great expanse, the richness of her resources and the courage, initiative and vigor of her people. There should be no important cleavages between any two or more of the nine provinces whose peoples demonstrated in such forthright manner their loyalty, admiration and affection for the occupant of the Throne and his queen.

Undoubtedly, too, the opportunity afforded by the Royal visit to the Canadian people to become better acquainted with the King and the Queen will go a long way towards dispelling any desire which may have made some headway among a minority to espouse some of the various "isms" which have for their objective the overthrow of democratic rule. The enthusiasm which the presence of Their Majesties engendered in the hearts and minds of the people of this country can only be translated as a fervent desire to maintain here that form of government of which King George and Queen Elizabeth are the symbolic heads.

Cementing A Friendship

The decision, also, to extend the visit of the rulers of the Empire to Canada's friendly neighbor to the south, proved to be a most happy plan. The welcome accorded Their Majesties, the first British king and queen to set foot in the United States, in that country is ample evidence of the cordial relations existing between the two great democracies and the visit should do much to cement and augment a kindly feeling and co-operative spirit between the people of Great Britain and the United States and Canada and the United States respectively.

Their Majesties had not set foot on Canadian soil very long before their presence made itself felt in improved business conditions. The very fact that they made the trip across the Atlantic was evidence that the international situation was not as dangerous as some feared and believed. The evidence inspired confidence, and confidence was all that was needed to speed up the wheels of industry, and that in its turn, should go far towards solving some of the country's major problems.

It may well be that the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to Canada was destined to mark the turning point in the economic welfare of the country.

Long live King George VI. and his beautiful and gracious consort, Queen Elizabeth.

Orders New Plane

Reichsfuehrer Hitler has placed an order for a new aeroplane with space enough for a conference room and sufficient range to fly non-stop from Berlin to New York. The aeroplane is a four-engine, low wing, land machine of a type known as "Condor FW 200." It has an average speed of 220 miles an hour and a cruising range of 5,600 miles.

Britain's State Motor Cars

Drawings In Detail Submitted To The King For Approval

Britain's State motor cars are the most carefully planned. The King takes an active part in their design. Chassis and coachwork drawings in great detail are always submitted to him. Frequently he makes practical suggestions, particularly for the inclusion of some item which may help the chauffeur. The King shows great consideration for the men who drive him. The new Daimler State motor car has been fitted with an inlaid glass roof. This was the King's own suggestion in order to get as much light as possible into the car so that Their Majesties can be more clearly seen on State drives when the weather precludes the landaulette hood being lowered. The King has discontinued his father's practice of riding in special forward seats. These are now frequently occupied by the Princesses. In the new car, special raised cushions have been fitted to these folding occasional seats for the benefit of the little Princesses. The car has the typical high roof, necessary to allow the King to wear tall military and other head-dresses on official occasions. All four of the State cars have a complete "secretariat" concealed in the centre arm rest so that the King may write while motoring.

A Queer Specimen

Bermuda Government Aquarium Has Secured A Lion Fish
Louis Mowbray, curator of the Bermuda government aquarium, is proud of his latest acquisition.

Its name, he admits, is not very impressive. It is "Pterois sp." Visitors to the aquarium, however, hear him call it a "lion fish" as he points out its many unusual features.

"There isn't another one in captivity," Mowbray claims, while admitting that other branches of the species are contained in some collections. The local specimen was given to the aquarium by Vincent Atter, who obtained it in Hawaii from Christian Holmes, an amateur collector.

The fish is about eight inches long, with pale amber and brown striping and gull-like dorsal fins resembling a lion's mane. Although much smaller than the King of Beasts, the "lion fish" is not much safer to handle—for those dorsal spines contain tiny poison-filled sacs. Representing a species which had been thought extinct, "Pterois" seemed quite unconcerned as he went about making himself at home in his aquarium tank.

The Wisdom Of Turkey

Ministry Of Education Forbids Make-up For Its School Girls

Turkey has ruled that girls at schools and universities must not try to look like movie stars. The Ministry of Education of Istanbul has notified heads of schools that the girls must not have their hair waved, curled, dyed or otherwise deviate from the "natural".

The misses are also forbidden to use lipstick, powder, face cream or other forms of makeup, and must not wear jewelry or silk stockings.

Boys must have their hair neatly and closely cropped.

Rubber Life Rafts

U.S. Bombers Carry Them Fully Equipped For Emergency

Rubber life rafts capable of supporting 20 men have been adopted by the United States army air corps for its largest bombers. The rafts, which weigh about 11 pounds each, occupy only three cubic feet of space when folded. Equipped with flares, drinking water, repair kits and four coats, each seats 10 persons and has life lines to support an equal number in the water.

The Easiest Way

In view of the prescribed distances at which photographers had to remain during the royal stops on the Western Ontario itinerary, it was suggested that the best way to obtain a picture of their Majesties and avoid the crowd was to buy a postage stamp.

England Was Her Birthplace

But Queen Elizabeth Claims Scotland As Her Native Land

It is generally assumed that Queen Elizabeth is Scotch. Her father is a Scottish earl and her mother was English. The principal family seat is Glamis Castle, in the county of Forfar, Scotland, but the Earl of Strathmore has another mansion at St. Paul's, Walsbury, Hertfordshire, England, and it was there that the future Queen was born. Legally, a child takes the nationality of its father, therefore the Queen is a Scot.

But Her Majesty goes further than that. In her speech at the laying of the foundation stone of the Supreme Court building at Ottawa, she referred to Scotland as "my native land." When she spoke to a group of men from the Forfar county of Angus at Vancouver she referred to it as "my native country."

There is a story told of a Scotsman who was boasting about the number of eminent men who were born there. An Englishman said, "Surely you will not claim that Shakespeare was a Scot?" "No," replied the Scot, "but he was good enough to be one."

Queen Elizabeth may not be a native of Scotland—but she is good enough to have been.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Fastest Regular Train

Milwaukee Stream-Liner's Average Speed Is 74.6 Miles An Hour

The New York Times says the fastest, regular start-to-stop steam train in the world is now made by the Morning Hiawatha of the Milwaukee road, according to Eric Crickmay, railroad expert of Thomas Cook & Son. He reports that this new stream-liner sets the record with an average speed of 74.6 miles an hour in making the 78.3 miles from Sparta to Portage, Wis., in 63 minutes.

"Who are those people who are cheering?" asked the recruit as the soldiers marched to the train. "Those," replied the veteran, "are the people who are not going."

Strength Of Empire

Trend Is To Better The Condition Of The Masses

"I'll tell my Dad."
It remained for Ald. Lakie, of Lethbridge, to furnish the best proof yet of Queen Elizabeth's democracy of spirit. Ald. Lakie knew her father in Scotland. Where the Queen met the Lethbridge alderman and he told her of his acquaintance with her father, she said, quite as casually as one Old Countryman to another, "I'll tell my Dad."

If there has been a tendency in democracies during the past quarter of a century to set up classes which show the extremes up in contrast—and we fear there has been—the humanness of King George and Queen Elizabeth shown during their Canadian tour should do much to cure it. The British Empire will continue strong as long as the whole trend is to better the position of the masses, and that betterment will come about the sooner if there is a sympathetic understanding of democratic principles by those in high places.—Lethbridge Herald.

Revenue From Wolves

Considerable Source Of Wealth Derived From Wolf Pelts

Canada has a general unsuspected source of wealth in its wolf skins. Alive the wolf is a nuisance, destroying sheep and poultry on Algoma farms, for example, and doing serious depredation among our game.

But dead, his pelt is a thing of value, whether it be for robes, fur coats or other things. And at times it provides a substantial export trade.

In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1937, for instance, exports of wolf pelts were valued at $665,018, and in the five years from 1934 to 1938 the total value of such exports was $1,982,792, not very much short of two million dollars.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Opinion Of One Woman

Television Announcer Says Broadcasting Needs A Man's Voice

Jasmine Bligh, the taller of two girls who announce the British Broadcasting Corporation's television programs, took a bow when viewers voted they preferred women to men announcers. But, said she, they probably would not have voted so if they could not see her. "In television, I suppose, the public finds a woman announcer easier on the eyes, but there is something about non-vision broadcasting that seems to need a man's voice."

Banks Are Protected

Any Money Stolen By Bandits Is Fully Insured

The Peterborough Examiner says: There has been now and then some argument regarding the loss suffered by a bank when it is robbed, some contending that the branch would have to look upon the loss the same as one sustained in any other way, while others held that money was insured.

The Examiner made inquiry through the Canadian Press service at Toronto, and the reply was: "Chief inspector's office of Canadian Bank of Commerce reports universal practice in chartered banks in Canada is to have all funds insured, so no robbery is at the expense of the bank involved."

The money to pay for the insurance of funds would probably be assessed against the earnings of all branches. Banks have weapons and in nearly all cases there is training in how to use them, but banks do not encourage employees to start shooting it out with any invaders. The individual can use his own discretion regarding such a move, but the official view is that a man's life is worth more than the money which may be stolen.

Tourists Visit Britain

The United States sent 97,258 visitors to Great Britain during 1936, a White Paper announced. The Government statistics showed Germany second with 79,653 and France third with 69,133. Total of foreigners visiting in Britain, the statement said, was 248,672 as compared with 297,142 in 1937.

Duncan Van Doren arrived within the first week after the accident.

Duncan's well-bred face showed the effects of grief and shock; his pleasant voice was rubbed off. "Well, I'm here now," he said, "and I'm here to stay until she gets well—or doesn't get well."

Mrs. Dana gave him a warm smile. "Duncan dear!" It was certain, he had assured her, that her child would live. "But, Bixford, who is the greatest bone specialist this side of Chicago, won't make any prognosis yet about the spine."

Conrad Jordan, who had left Tahore instantly to join in the search, remained to look after Gunnar. "Though there's nothing I can do," he admitted to Lynn Dana, "except walk up and down that horrible-smelling hall with him, hobbling about all the injured spines I've known cured, and dragging him out to eat infrequently. He begrudges every instant away for fear it might be the time they would let him see her." He shook his head. "And why can't he see her?"

"Why, I understand that no one—his friend began.

"On the contrary. All her family, the old governors, the large, plushy, optimistic aunt—That's the abominable part of it."

"The man in the wheeled-chair was agitated. He seemed to have aged years in days. "You think they are definitely determined to keep him away from her? She isn't conscious enough to ask for him?"

"Even if she is, they won't let him in!" Mary Dana Webster said hotly. She managed to run in to see Lynn Dana every day for a few minutes of aching sympathy. "It simply burns me up to look at him," she told her husband. "He knows what it means. Do you suppose he blames himself, Neddy?" she asked him. "That makes it a million times worse if he does."

"Well, he might at that." Ned Webster had shaken his head. "I and the old lady hadn't given her the blame."

"But, if she hadn't gone up with that miserable bum of a girl—"

"Yes, but if she hadn't been a flier it never could have happened to her."

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will love you to distraction and ardor. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep. So in case you need a good general system tonic, try Wm. L. Moody's Compound. It helps you to get your pep back and gives you the pep and leanness of youth. You'll find Wm. L. Moody's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

he said reasonably. "And I expect that's the way the family figures, her mother anyway."

"I know," Mary Dana Webster nodded. "I wish Sally Ann would come home."

"She will, later," Lynn Dana said. "I cabled and wrote that her presence would mean more to Sarah Lynn in a little while, during the waiting period—weeks, months of it, probably." All three of them were thinking that it might be years, as it had been for him. "You know, people are no end kind and sorry, but the drama goes out of the situation, presently. I mean, they get used to the fact, and life goes on again, and—well, the calls and the flowers and books and things dwindle away."

"There'll be whole conservatories full of flowers now that Duncan is here," Mary said bitterly.

CHAPTER XIII.

Gunnar Thorwald was pacing the corridor when Duncan Van Doren got out of the elevator. Duncan's head was down; he did not see the flier. Gunnar stared incredulously, staring toward him, thrusting out an arm to block his way.

"You have seen her?" There was an emphasis on the first pronoun which made the question at once a demand and a protest.

Duncan looked at him with swimming eyes, nodding, his face convulsed. He manifested no resentment, no conviction that before him stood the cause of the tragedy; only an engulfing flood of sympathy and sorrow. He gulped, groping for his handkerchief—"Horrible—crud—"

Gunnar pushed past him toward the elevator, but it rose as he reached it, so he turned and went leaping up the stairs. A woman with a big bouquet of garden flowers shrank out of his way.

"Marry!" she said to her husband. "That fellow looks like a mental case!"

He flung himself through the door in spite of the card in the brass frame which read:

Dana
Drs. Dana and Bixford
NO VISITORS

but he stood still on the threshold, staring.

Mrs. Dana, standing at the window, her back to him, turned at the sound of his entrance. "Please leave the room!" she said in an angry tone. "No callers are permitted. My daughter is—"

Gunnar was not listening. There was nothing she could tell him about her daughter. He continued to stand still, looking at her.

"Leave this room instantly! I will ring for an orderly to put you out!" Mrs. Dana cried wildly. "Haven't you done enough? Aren't you satisfied with the suffering, the agony—?" she was bearing down on him in soft fury. "Do you want to kill her?"

But Gunnar had reached the bed. He had leaned over Sarah Lynn, shaking, and said her name.

She was as nearly white as her skin could be. Her chin, her cheek-bones were as sharp and salient as if they had been chiseled from marble. Her eyes were open, bigger and darker than ever, sunk in shadowed hollows, and a startled recognition came into them at once and then faded. "My heart!" Gunnar said hoarsely. "My dearest heart!" He could not have known what he looked like, but he remembered to smile at her. Mrs. Dana came and pulled at his arm but he shook her off and bent lower, still smiling. "My heart—"

Sarah Lynn's eyes widened, the pupils distending, and a strange look of fright and something stranger still came into them. "No!" she cried. "Go away! Please, please go away!"

"Mrs. Dana was pressing the button. "Now, do you hear?" she triumphed. "Do you hear?"

Gunnar thought it was delirium. He said gently, "It is Gunnar, my dearest one—to stay with you always!" He bent to kiss her.

But Sarah Lynn, pinioned and helpless, able to move nothing but her eyes, never lifted them with a gleam of her being repelled him. "No! No! Go away! Never come again—never—come again!"

The press played it up and the radio buzzed with bulletins about Gunnar Thorwald's return flight across the Atlantic, but no newspapers came into Sarah Lynn's hospital room, and they never tuned in for news flashes—only for music or comedy programs, or an occasional playlet which was known to be pleasant and amusing.

Gunnar's name was not mentioned after the day of his visit. When, at length, he had been compelled to leave the room, he could hear Sarah Lynn's voice, spent but shrill, saying to her mother, "Make him go away! Make him go away!"

He had not waited to hear her mother's answer, hovering over her in an agony of protective tenderness,

SHE COULD NEITHER WALK NOR SLEEP

Arms and Feet Swollen With Rheumatism

This woman suffered for many years. Pain sapped her strength until she lost hope of recovery. Many medicines were tried, but the grip of her crippling rheumatism. At last her husband persuaded her to try Kruschen Salts. "My arms and feet were swollen with rheumatism," she writes. "I could not walk nor get regular sleep, and nothing did me any lasting good. I was so hopeless of ever getting better, I lost my good nature entirely. Then my husband persuaded me to try Kruschen Salts. After two weeks I began to feel better. I persevered, and in six weeks, I was doing housework. Later, I was able to go for a walk. Now I am free from pain and I feel grand." (Mrs.) F.W.

Rheumatism is commonly caused by deposits of uric acid crystals, which lodge in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits of troubling crystals and to convert them into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

and he did not know that Sarah Lynn had cried, quietly, ceaselessly, for three days. The tears trickled out of the corners of her eyes and slid down her temples into her hair, and she could not lift her hand to wipe them away.

Her doctors and nurses were disturbed, but they didn't seem able to control it. "This isn't helping any," Miss Burke said.

"It is just the reaction, the great relief, after that distressing and cruel interview the other day," Mrs. Dana insisted. "Darling, you are safe with Mother, and no one is going to bother you again! Mother's right here!" She saw the nurse's cool gray eyes upon her and followed her out into the aggressively clean-smelling corridor. "It is perfectly natural," she said rather defensively. "She regards him as the cause of her misfortune, so of course she shrinks from him."

"You think so?" Miss Burke said levelly. "Well, I can't give all the answers, but that wouldn't be my diagnosis." She went away with her heels, and she was going on an angry note, she hated to have cases get her as this one did.

Sarah Lynn persistently asked for the old family doctor from Los Gatos and they were obliged to send for him. He could contribute nothing, they felt sure, but if it was a comfort to the child—

"Suppose you just step out and let us have our visit alone," he said mildly. Then he sat down and patted her hand. "Well, Sarah Lynn, I brought you into the world, as the old saying goes, and I saw you through measles and chickenpox and the rest of 'em. I'm mighty sorry about this. Was there anything special you wanted to say to me?"

She could not turn her head, but her eyes turned to him. "You are the truth, always. Am I going to die?"

"No," he said heartily. "I'm not up on all the details of your case, of course, but I had a talk with Duun. No, there's no doubt about it, Sarah Lynn, you're going to live."

"Must I?"

He cleared his throat. "I guess you must, girl. I guess that's your chore."

Sarah Lynn said after a long pause, "I know doctors can't—kill people. It's only animals that can be—what do they say?—put out of their misery. But can't they—just not make people live?"

He shook his grizzled head. "That's their chore, Sarah Lynn, making people live." Then he said briskly. "But it's not going to be like this, you know, always."

Sarah Lynn said, "They used to give me stuff all the time to make me sleep. I wish they still did. If I have to live, I think they might do that for me."

"Pain still bad?"

"No, my back . . . my head, my heart. Will you ask them to give it to me again?"

"No," the old country doctor said. "I won't do that, Sarah Lynn. You wouldn't want me to. I guess you look plenty of grit to go up in your plane, and more than plenty to come down in a parachute. But I believe you have a lot of grit left."

He stood up, looking down at her, his eyes very bright. "Yes, you've got to live, Sarah Lynn."

A Great Sculptor

John Theodore Tussaud Has Modelled More Than 1,500 People

The world's most famous people are just wax in the hands of a man who has just celebrated his 82nd birthday and golden wedding.

John Theodore Tussaud, white-haired and kindly head of the famous waxworks family, has modelled more than 1,500 people.

"I've been to hundreds of famous trials, watching every facial line and mannerism of criminals who later were added to our exhibition," he said.

"Royalty and famous politicians invariably model after watching them during their public engagements and memorizing them until I get back to the studio."

The man, whose work has been seen by nearly every member of the Royal family during the past half-century, remembers the time when he lifted up the present King as a child.

He was touring the exhibition, and was just too small to see the miniature martyrdom scene of Thomas A'Becket," he said.

At present Mr. Tussaud is putting the finishing touches in his studio to a double-size bust of Queen Mary. "I have perfected a self-hardening form of clay of my own composition," he said. "I believe it will revolutionize sculpture."

Hunting Boers' War Chest

Three Brothers Hope To Locate Treasure In South Africa

A new search is to be made for the "Kruger millions"—the money, gold and valuables which formed the Boers' war chest during the South African War.

Three brothers named De Wet, of the Bredasdorp district of Cape Province, have in their service a Sasuto called Williams who said he helped hide the treasure when he was a boy to Gen. Cronje.

At President Kruger's house he assisted in leading the treasure to an ex. cart, which he then led to a spot between Pretoria and Pietersburg. Along with other natives, he had previously been ordered to dig holes near this place.

Gen. Cronje and Gen. De Wet, who had accompanied the war chest, then ordered the men to be transferred to a Scotch cart which they brought along. The two Boer leaders then went off with the Scotch cart and when they returned it was empty.

The brothers De Wet plan to have Williams guide them to the place. In the meantime they have written to the Government to ask how they would stand if they found anything.

Child Training

Parents Are Warned Against Trying To Make Geniuses Of Their Children

Proud parents are advised by a teacher of psychology to stop trying to make "geniuses" out of pre-school age children.

Dr. Alexander Schneider, psychologist of Loyola University, says parents cause "irreparable harm" to youngsters by helping to develop their "social or educational maladjustments."

Asserting it was "impossible to make anything like a genius out of the average child," Dr. Schneider deplored a widespread tendency, particularly among educated persons, to satisfy their own egos by forcing their children into intellectual moulds ill-suited to their native capacity or temperament.

Compelling children—even before they are able to hold their books upright—to recite poems, count up to 100, or name offhand the streets of the cities in which they live, were named by Dr. Schneider as among the practices used in parental efforts to develop precocious youngsters.

Not A New Idea

Air-Conditioning Was Used In King Solomon's Time

The site of King Solomon's great factory town of Ezion-Geber on the Red Sea—"The Pittsburgh of Palestine"—has been uncovered in excavations just completed by Nelson Glueck, director of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, Yale University announced.

Many buildings in the vast smelting centre were air-conditioned for heat and contained an elaborate system of flues and air channels that permitted utilization of strong north winds as natural blasts.

Queer Book Markers

Some People Make Use Of Anything That Is Handy

City librarians of Longmont, Colorado, report that they have found several toothbrushes in returned books. Other unorthodox markers include safety pins, comic valentines, absorbent cotton, blades of grass, price tags, candy wrappers, crochet hooks, photographs and drawings.

"People jump up to answer the doorbell, to keep the steak from burning or to perform some other emergency task and they jam anything that is handy into the book," is the way the librarians figure it out.

Real Baseball

Is Game In Small Town Between Home Team And Visitors

Baseball is a game played on a hot afternoon under a broiling sun and under the watchful eyes of indignant enthusiasts. A game played under the stars and floodlight is something else. The specialist may even question whether the games played in the big league parks, day or night, are really baseball. The real, true genuine baseball, in the opinion of many is the game played in a small town between the home team and the visitors a game attended by the entire population and a game which enforces a public holiday because the stores are deserted anyway. That is baseball.—Halifax Chronicle.

THE CROP TESTING PLAN

Some may desire to have their fields inspected next fall so that they can sell the seed in carlots, or sealed in the sack as Registered or Certified.

If this is the intention then farmers with Registered seed must communicate before July 1st with Mr. W. T. G. Wiener, Secretary of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, at Ottawa, and those with Certified seed should write to the District Supervisor of Production Services Plant Products, at Winnipeg, or Saskatoon, or Calgary, for each of the respective provinces. These gentlemen will then inform the farmer about the next step to be taken.

Seeding Crested Wheat

Grass In The Fall

Crested Wheat Grass is different than most grasses in that the young seedlings are not able to survive the heat of Summer. It is obvious, therefore, that the seeding of this variety should not be undertaken between May 1st and August 15th. There are three periods in the year that are most favourable for seeding this grass, namely: (1) before the end of April in the early Spring; (2) between August 15 and the middle of September if there is a good reserve of moisture; and (3) after the middle of October just before freeze-up, when it is not expected to germinate until the following Spring.

Crested Wheat Grass is recommended for drought areas and not for moister areas except for seed production. Under arid conditions, particularly where there is danger of soil drifting, satisfactory results may be obtained by drilling Crested Wheat Grass seed directly into the stubble or Russian Thistles in the Fall. The coverage of snow which takes place in the Winter usually provides sufficient moisture to permit germination when seeded in stubble. Fall seeding has certain advantages over Spring seeding, particularly in the drought areas. It permits the farmers to perform the seeding without interfering with other farm work. Also, seed sown in the late Fall will germinate much earlier in the Spring than seed sown in the Spring.

Method Of Seeding

In Stubble

Sow directly into the stubble preferably with a double disc drill, with every other run removed and the corresponding hoppers closed. Clean grain stubble is preferred, but the presence of most annual weeds is not objectionable provided they are not large enough to prevent free operation of the drill. It is essential that the seed should not be sown deeper than one-half to three-quarters of an inch.

Where there is danger of Fall or Spring soil drifting, it is important that the land have a coverage of stubble or weeds; and care should be taken when seeding that the coverage is not destroyed. It may be preferable in some instances to broadcast seed, rather than destroy the coverage, if suitable drilling equipment is not available.

Sow Crested Wheat Grass at the rate of eight pounds (or more for moist areas) per acre. The drill may be set at about the proper rate before starting in the following manner. After cleaning the box thoroughly, pour in the seed until about half full; jack up the drill; keep adjusting the rate until one pound of seed is dropped while turning both drive wheels the following number of revolutions:

For eight pounds per acre:

For 22 run drill width turn 34 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 20 run drill width turn 37 1/2 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 18 run drill-width turn 41 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 16 run drill-width turn 45 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 14 run drill-width turn 50 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 12 run drill-width turn 56 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 10 run drill-width turn 64 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 8 run drill-width turn 80 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 6 run drill-width turn 100 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 4 run drill-width turn 160 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed. For 2 run drill-width turn 320 revolutions while dropping 1 pound of seed.
